Subject: Application for Junior Marketing Manager

Dear Recruiting Team,

I am completing my Master's in International Business at WHU – Otto Beisheim School of Management, graduating in August 2026 and would like to apply for the Junior Marketing Manager position at ACCURIDS.

ACCURIDS' mission to make pharmaceutical data reliable and connected resonates with me on a level that goes beyond marketing interest. My undergraduate degree in Biotechnology gave me a grounding in life sciences research and the complexity of regulated data environments. My subsequent career in brand marketing has trained me to translate exactly this kind of technical subject matter into clear, audience-specific messaging, a combination I believe is a genuine differentiator for a thought leadership and demand generation role in the pharma data space.

In my current role as Brand Management Intern at Henkel Adhesive Technologies, I coordinate campaign assets and brand communications across global and local markets, managing creative briefs, aligning messaging with strategic objectives, and preparing presentations for the Marketing Director and VP. This has sharpened my ability to develop structured, audience-specific content in a multi-stakeholder environment. Prior to Henkel, I led a sales team of six at Pickyourtrail, where I tracked commercial KPIs via Power BI dashboards and worked closely with product and support teams to align operations with revenue outcomes. This combination of campaign management experience and a commercial, data-driven mindset maps directly to the demand generation and marketing-sales alignment responsibilities of this role.

My WHU coursework in Strategic Marketing and Data Analytics, combined with hands-on experience in CRM tools (Freshworks) and digital content creation, gives me a practical foundation to contribute from day one. I am comfortable building processes in fast-moving environments and motivated by the ownership and impact this role offers.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my background aligns with ACCURIDS' goals and am available for an interview at any time that is convenient for you.

Sincerely,

Shruthi Sankaranarayanan
