Application for Growth & Marketing Specialist

Dear Recruiting Team,

I am completing my Master's in International Business at WHU – Otto Beisheim School of Management, graduating in August 2026. I would like to apply for the Growth & Marketing Specialist role.

Bergen's EU expansion story is what draws me to this role. The logistics infrastructure supporting high-growth e-commerce brands is a space I find genuinely compelling, and the combination of partnership ecosystem building with regional marketing execution is exactly the kind of commercially grounded, cross-functional role I want to grow in.

My two internships at Henkel Adhesive Technologies have developed precisely the skills this role requires. Across both roles, I functioned as the central coordination point between the lead creative agency and local brand managers across multiple EU markets, managing joint planning, aligning on timelines and deliverables, and ensuring that global brand decisions translated into market-relevant execution. This experience of serving as a structured, reliable liaison across a distributed partner network mirrors the primary responsibility of this role directly. I also conducted market and competitor analyses to benchmark positioning across EU channels, identifying gaps and opportunities that informed strategic direction, directly relevant to partner identification and performance monitoring.

Alongside this, my time leading a sales team of six at Pickyourtrail, an e-commerce travel platform, gave me commercial depth: managing a €2.6M revenue target, tracking pipeline via CRM tools, and coordinating cross-functionally with product and operations to align on outcomes. I am based in Düsseldorf, available from August 2026 with no visa sponsorship required, and well set up for Bergen's remote-first, globally collaborative model.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss my application and am available for an interview at any time that is convenient for you.

Sincerely,
Shruthi Sankaranarayanan
