

SHRUTHI SANKARANARAYANAN

Höhrerstraße 48, 56179 Vallendar, Germany | +49 155 60416431 | s.sankaranarayanan@whu.edu

Brunswick Group
Berlin, Germany

Vallendar, January 13th, 2025

Application for Internship Program Spring 2025– starting from May 1st, 2025

Dear Recruiting Team,

I am currently in the first semester of my Master's in International Business at WHU – Otto Beisheim School of Management. I would like to apply for the Internship Program at Brunswick Group and am available from May through August 2025.

Brunswick's reputation as a critical issues firm advising global leaders on navigating complex financial, political, and social landscapes is extremely interesting. The firm's ability to operate seamlessly across geographies, supported by a cohesive and collaborative structure, reflects a commitment to excellence and innovation. I am particularly drawn to Brunswick's role in shaping the public narrative for value-creating organizations, and I am eager to contribute to this impactful mission.

At WHU, my coursework in International Strategy and Data Analytics has equipped me with a structured approach to addressing complex challenges. Through case studies on organizations navigating high-stakes environments, I developed a deep understanding of strategic decision-making and stakeholder engagement. These academic experiences, combined with my professional background, have cultivated the skills required to contribute meaningfully to Brunswick's mission of helping clients navigate interconnected financial, political, and social arenas.

During my time at Pickyourtrail, I led a team managing a €2.6 million annual revenue target, where I developed data-driven strategies to optimize performance and strengthen client relationships. This role demanded adaptability, analytical thinking, and effective communication—qualities that align well with the responsibilities at Brunswick. My experience collaborating with cross-functional teams and working under tight deadlines has prepared me to contribute to diverse client projects, including corporate and crisis communications, investor relations, and strategic positioning.

Additionally, my academic background in psychology has sharpened my ability to understand stakeholder motivations and build trust through tailored communication strategies. This, coupled with my strong research skills, enables me to analyze complex economic and political topics and translate them into actionable insights.

What excites me most about Brunswick's internship program is the opportunity to engage with high-profile issues that shape industries and societies. Working alongside a global team on projects at the intersection of finance, politics, and social impact is a unique opportunity to apply my skills while gaining invaluable experience in strategic communications.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how my background and skills align with Brunswick's goals and values.

Sincerely,
Shruthi Sankaranarayanan