Application for Intern Business Development – starting from May 1st, 2025

Dear Recruiting Team,

I am currently in the first semester of my Master's in International Business at WHU – Otto Beisheim School of Management. I would like to apply for the Intern Business Development at Infinite Roots and am available from May through July 2025.

As a biotechnology graduate, I am deeply inspired by Infinite Roots' innovative approach to utilizing mycelium to revolutionize the food industry. Creating a new food category that addresses sustainability and future food systems is a bold and transformative mission, and I am eager to contribute to this journey by promoting these products and bringing them closer to consumers.

I believe my academic background and professional experience position me uniquely for this role. My Bachelor's in Biotechnology gives me a solid understanding of the science behind your products, while my 2.5 years of experience in business development equips me to build strong customer relationships and drive growth. My combined expertise allows me to identify the right markets for your product, structure effective market entry strategies, and engage potential customers effectively.

At WHU, my coursework in International Strategy (Grade: 1.0) provided me with practical insights into business models and strategic frameworks. This experience sharpened my ability to analyze competitive positioning, anticipate market challenges, and devise structured solutions—skills I am eager to apply in the context of Infinite Roots' market expansion.

In my previous role as Sales Team Lead at Pickyourtrail, I successfully managed a €2.6M annual revenue target and consistently achieved my goals by analyzing performance data and identifying growth opportunities. I developed innovative solutions to increase market share, including adapting sales pitches based on client behavior and seasonal demand. My efforts drove revenue and strengthened customer satisfaction, earning a 9/10 average rating across 600+ trips. Furthermore, I conducted training sessions to upskill team members, sharing strategies for effective sales and pipeline management.

My psychology background also played a key role in my sales success, enabling me to understand client needs deeply and tailor my communication to foster trust and long-term relationships. These experiences have prepared me to contribute meaningfully to Infinite Roots by combining technical expertise with practical business development skills.

The Business Development Internship at Infinite Roots offers the perfect opportunity to merge my biotechnology knowledge with my sales and business development experience. I am confident that my analytical approach, customer-focused mindset, and commitment to excellence align well with your team's objectives.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how my skills and experiences can contribute to Infinite Roots' mission to reshape the food industry.

Sincerely,
Shruthi Sankaranarayanan
